

THE
PARTNERSHIP

Real Estate, Property & Construction

Introduction

Buildings play a vital role in all of our lives – at work, shopping, recreation, or simply, as a place to call home. They are also a key investment asset class for individuals, corporations and pension funds. As such they not only play a key role in our day-to-day lives but also provide security for our future.

The European Real Estate, Property and Construction sector is one of the largest employers across the region and at The Curzon Partnership we support some of the leading players in the industry.

From a skills perspective the sector is diverse and as such our aim is to provide you with access to the best research and most capable candidates for senior level roles across the region.

For more information please contact Jonathan Krogdahl, who leads this specialist area.

Our expertise

The Property, Real Estate & Construction Sector is a core area of specialisation. All searches in this sector are led personally by a Director or Partner of the firm, with support from a variety of research people and tools.

They take responsibility for the assessment and information gathered on each and all of the presented candidates. This is a key differentiator from many other search firms; this important process is not left to junior members of the team and in this way we believe we are best able to market the attractions of our client and the position in question.

The Practice works closely with Curzon's market-leading Infrastructure team who are recognised leaders in handling senior level searches for a number of blue chip clients. This allows for a seamless transition of talent between the two differentiated sectors.

Internationally, we are members of IIC Partners, one of the top ten search groups in the world. With representation from the Curzon Partnership at board level we have a truly international operation.

Both Jonathan personally and the firm have conducted searches worldwide for the Property, Real Estate & Construction sector. These have involved both sourcing and relocating talent from one side of the globe to the other on behalf of our clients.
